Innovative Architects Welcomes the Addition of Scott McMichael as Director of Project Operations

Duluth, GA — February 14th, 2007 — Innovative Architects, a Microsoft Gold Partner, has announced the addition of Scott McMichael as Director of Project Operations. The addition of Scott, with his expertise in project management and business process analysis, will strengthen our management team and bolster efforts to expand our project management capabilities.

Scott brings years of experience delivering Information Technology solutions and services to a wide variety of clients across the globe. Prior to joining Innovative Architects, Scott worked as Director of Projects at American Systems / Thoughtmill. "We are very pleased to have Scott join our team," said Dan Michaels, Sales Principal of Innovative Architects. "He will have an active role in maturing our operations and helping us to achieve our financial and market penetration goals."

Upon accepting his new role, Scott stated, "I am pleased to have joined a team with the caliber of technologists that I have met on the team. Innovative Architects is perfectly organized to offer clients practical solutions to their Application Integration, Portal Management and Business Intelligence challenges through Microsoft's Enterprise Solution set."

Innovative Architects is experienced in utilizing Microsoft technologies to build scaleable, reliable solutions. The expertise of our consultants and our commitment to quality has resulted in successful relationships with leading companies throughout the US. Our goal is to help our customers achieve significant returns on their technology investments by deploying modular, reusable solutions that fit with client's legacy systems and with their new strategic architectures.
